I need to deploy a java application to internet, from Spring Boot and MongoDB. I've modified some configs, deployed the app in test project, but I need to add a new URL for test site, but Spring keeps sending me a 404 error for that URL. In my local project, I'm using HttpsURLConnection and it's working correctly (with some security certificates). I really don't know how to overcome this, and get my project working. Thanks a lot. A: It happened because the application is configured to not use ssl. Just right click on the project and go to Properties > Deployment > Configure : Phosphate transporter genes from Arabidopsis thaliana: evidence for a symplastic route and functional organization. The phosphate supply of the plant cell is regulated by two symplastic and two apoplastic phosphate transporters. The transporters belong to two distinct families, differentially targeted to the plasma membrane (Pht1) or tonoplast (Pht2). In this study, the expression of phosphate transporter genes from Arabidopsis thaliana (A. thaliana) was examined at the transcriptional level. The results indicate that different phosphate transporters are expressed during plant development in discrete temporal and spatial patterns. Northern blot analysis revealed that Pht1.1 and Pht1.2, from members of the plant transporter (PT) 1 family, are expressed in roots, whereas the genes from the plant transporter 2 (PT2) family, Pht2.1 and Pht2.2, are expressed only in vascular tissues. This finding is supported by in situ hybridization experiments. Taken together, the data indicate that the root is the site of phosphate translocation out of the seed. The expression of Pht1.1 and

This year, the theme is "Coming Together: Supporting Veterans with Mental Illness." Read more about Mental Health Week at the VA and at the Mental Health website. Click here to find out how to participate in the VA's Mental Health Month activities. My staff and I are excited about making the message of Mental Health Week a reality for all veterans. You have raised many issues and helped create many programs for our veterans. You have helped my administration take many steps toward ensuring our veterans have the benefits and services they need. I thank you. You can read more about our accomplishments and our efforts in the months

Neuropeptide Y (NPY) is widely distributed in the central nervous system and plays important roles in regulating neural functions. Recent studies suggest that NPY may also act on non-neuronal cells, such as endothelial cells and various immune cells. Here we report that NPY and galanin (GAL) are expressed in motoneurons, dorsal root ganglia (DRG) and lamina I/II of spinal dorsal horn neurons, and are localized to laminae IV and V, where they are expressed in neurons. This differential expression of NPY and GAL in the spinal cord suggests that NPY may be involved in analgesia by inhibiting the activity of nociceptive neurons and in pain control through a peripheral action on sensory neurons. 142 Ga.
