The Drive Activity Activation Code gadget is an easy-to-use gadget that gives you the overview of all of your hard drives. It can be downloaded from the developer's Web site for free, and no registration is required for that. A drive is represented by a small frame on the screen. You can move that frame by using the mouse. When you hover the frame over a drive, it starts to show information. The main screen consists of two sections. In the first section, you can view detailed information about every drive. There is a lot of information available, including performance settings and drive type. In the second section, you can control options to make those drives play better with your computer. The current values have been saved, so you don't need to restart your computer for the changes to take effect. The gadget is quite easy to use. When the app is launched, it shows you a short instruction manual. Your drives are listed at the top of the screen. Each drive has two sections in it. One shows detailed information, while the other contains options to control your drives' settings. You can move the frame of each drive to any position on the screen by using the mouse. Furthermore, you can hide a specific drive by selecting it. For example, if you want to hide drive "C:" from the screen, you have to select it and right-click to activate the option to hide it. One of the most useful features is the option to view the history of each drive. Every button has the same purpose, so just press it and see what changed. In addition, you can query your drives for their performance information. You can select different query types and configurations. For example, you can query for overall drive performance, read and write operations, and for those operations, read and write counts. You can also query for the queue length and the percentage of time during which your computer was idle. In addition, you can make a weekly, monthly, and yearly report of your hard drives. It is possible to hide specific drives from your overall view of the drives. This is a handy option, because you don't want to show all of your drives, as they wear quickly.
