A: Search within the videos. Once you've found what you are looking for, mouseover the YouTube URL and you will see a link near the right side of the player. The URL will be to a BitTorrent client. Download that and you should be able to download the video. To create the above asset in production each thumbnail requires around 600 requests to the AWS API for each frame, so that's over 3GB of data sent from Amazon to my laptop just to create one short gif. When I first ran this over, the total cost was less than $1. So, I probably only made around $5 on this investment, but it shows just how inefficient the AWS API is as we tend to remember the cost as much as the amount of data. Want to see more? If you'd like to see the full list of products I've created so far here it is: About me I'm currently working as a frontend developer at TSSO. Outside work, I'm a bit of a rebel, chocoholic and traveller. I love making things for myself and would rather create something useful for others. I'm all ears for a crazy idea.

Terror attack on New Year's Eve on Istanbul airport The city of Istanbul, December 31, 2016 -- On January 1, 2017, Turkish police arrested two Palestinian citizens living in Istanbul on suspicion of belonging to the "Islamic State" terrorist group. According to the arrest warrant, one of the suspects was charged with having taken part in terrorist activity related to an attack on Istanbul's Atatürk Airport on December 31, when a bomber had detonated his suicide vest in a crowd of people at the entrance to the terminal. The accusation sheet was filled with a number of travel routes, but the most sensational one, which allegedly led to the arrest, concerns the alleged participation of the two Palestinians in an attack that shook Turkey's tourism industry on January 1. According to the accusation, which is based on the testimony of three law enforcement officials, the two terrorist suspects, who had entered Turkey in October through Bulgaria, did the following: Upon their arrival at the airport, the two entered a terminal and parked their car at the ticket counter and then went inside the terminal, despite the fact that the terminal was closed at the time. The two were later caught by the airport's security and arrested with their car.
