Anybody know of a way to access the access-token header in javascript? A: I've read this article recently and this is what I understood. There are two types of tokens. user-agent tokens (sent from the browser on every request to a web server) the access token (sent in a request to some web API. Saying that, I'd be remiss to leave out links in the post but the article is well worth the read. The present invention relates to vehicular propulsion systems and, more particularly, to a variable speed vehicular propulsion system. The present invention relates to a variable speed vehicular propulsion system for use with vehicles in which some of the wheels are propelled by at least a portion of pressurized combustible gas and which may be operated in one of two operative modes: a first mode in which the vehicle is propelled by the gas to achieve a first range of vehicular speeds, and a second mode in which the vehicle is propelled by the gas at less than the first range of vehicular speeds.Simons Kade Simons Kade (born February 23, 1973) is an American lawyer, lecturer, editor, and attorney at law.
