“Distrain is a true story based game about one serial killer. You only get one chance to survive in Distrain. The game is broken into multiple areas, each one leading to the next. You will need to work through the game in order to get to the end. You are guided through by a narrator that will give hints to point you in the right direction. If you want to die, if you want to succeed, it’s completely up to you.” Designed by student developers, Distrain is a harrowing story of love and survival, written with an artistic and meaningful bent. As a student, five of us spent a year creating Distrain. The result is a slice-of-life game with a twist. Features: - Distrain is a story-driven game where the most memorable experiences happen off-screen - Over a period of five months, five students presented multiple playthroughs of the story, while single-handedly writing, designing, testing, coding, and more - This was our first attempt at a game, so we did it ourselves - Distrain is inspired by films such as Assault on Precinct 13 and Fatal Attraction, as well as infamous serial killers - Distrain is also influenced by the great psychological novels of the past, such as Emma, Salò, and even the Bible

About the Developers: “I'm a fourth year student in Toronto, I'm currently a Game Design and Art major. The past two years I've been working in the areas of Art and Design. In this time period, I've become a creative artist with a passion for environments and style. I want to make people happy by delivering them a creative and meaningful experience.” “I'm happy that the team came together and worked very well together. We're a small team of five people, all students who are passionate about developing games. It's been a really gratifying experience for us to work together to create a project this large. We've also gotten to know each other on a personal level because of this project, which has helped in our projects outside of Distrain too.” Guitar instrumental at the end?
