Tuesday, June 28, 2010 Tuesday 'Super' 5 at the Sunshine Coast

There's nothing like a gruelling day of surfing the trifecta of big overhead gun barrel conditions, while getting yourself incredibly psyched up to lay down some serious $$$ on the big wave pools. This is what I call a Super Tuesday. After a very early start on Saturday I caught a flight back to Oahu, to the North Shore to the infamous Pipeline spot. I booked a 15-minute session at Pipeline under the perfect conditions, and relaxed. People were not as good as the conditions. I slept in on Sunday and took my 12-year old son, Sam, to Victoria. We didn't have a long session, but he was so stoked on the set up that he rode for an hour and a half. (His "O" is going to be a monster, I can tell). This is typical of Sam as an older child, he's always up for something really fun and he wants the whole family there. We had a great time, with lots of smiles and laughs, and the scenery was amazing. We even caught a mini beach of waves, and loved it. Here's a few more pics from Pipeline... The last couple of days have been all about the dreaded 8-10' Day Haters and Indo's. I'm not so much a fan of this set up. I like to have my safety zone cut off from my line, and in these big barrel conditions, I get bombarded with borderline dangerous big-wave riders who get fed up and just go nuts. Your instinct is to not let them get off the cliff bff6bb2d33
