TWO MEN STABBED WILLEM DORN TWO MEN STABBED WILLEM DORN Minneapolis police are searching for a shooter who stabbed and seriously wounded two men inside a packed nightclub early Tuesday. One of the men was found stabbed in the abdomen in the lobby area of Death's Door at 3213 Nicollet Ave. S. at 2:43 a.m., said Cmdr. Robert Gallmeyer of the Minneapolis police. The other man was found lying on the sidewalk across the street from the nightclub. "It looks like a pretty comprehensive attack," he said. The wounds to the two men weren't life threatening. The wounds to the first man were to the abdomen, while the second victim was hit in the neck, Gallmeyer said. Police questioned people who were inside the club at the time, but no one saw or heard anything. A description of the suspect in the case was not available at this time. The Minneapolis Police Department and Crime Stoppers of Minnesota are offering a reward of up to $1,000 for information that may lead to the arrest of the suspect. Q: Process C# class method instead of calling with argument In my C# class, I have a method that is passed a string and returns a string of an error message. public static string Error(string input) { ... } In my code, I have the usual error scenario of the input string being null. I do not want to check if the input string is null before calling the Error method, but instead, I'd like to call the method and have it return the string (without throwing a null reference exception). I imagine this being done with reflection, but I am new to C# and I'm not quite sure how to go about this. Thanks, A:

The BID to B2B e-commerce is moving from simple, costly transactions to the complex needs of value adding, value serving and value capturing transactions. From marketers, retailers and suppliers point of view, Forrester research suggests that if they want to succeed in the B2B marketplaces of the future they will have to embrace the shift from selling from headquarter to selling from warehouse. Like the consumer marketplaces where voice and personal data are constantly available, B2B marketplaces are expected to reach high levels of trust and security while offering increased options for customers. This means that B2B marketplaces require a new approach to identifying and authenticating users and verifying user level data. We will see an increase in the use of proxy servers and SSO services for B2B marketplaces, which could offer immediate access to confidential data from a variety of IT infrastructures. Key Findings B2B marketplaces are expected to drive increased user demand for greater and more efficient access to secure data: Solutions that make user access to data more user-friendly and offer it via simplified access points (i.e. via mobile devices) will have a strong competitive advantage. For example, researchers expect 24/7 access to the cloud via mobile devices will increasingly be used. To stay competitive, B2B marketplaces will need to offer intelligent search capabilities that integrate with the data being stored and managed: Real-time search functionality will provide an increased level of value to customers and access to secure data will become vital for B2B marketplaces to capture and retain customers. To be successful in a competitive world, companies that offer value added services to customers will need to find ways to offer these services using technology and resources that are familiar to B2B customers. One major trend in the B2B marketplaces of the future will be the increased use of cloud services. B2B marketplaces will require increased levels of security: Though the use of secure communications channels will remain high, the use of proxy and SSO solutions will become more prevalent. This can be seen in a decline in the use of login to the marketplaces via network (i.e. L2L) connections. This 6d1f23a050
