You may not be a millionaire or a celebrity, but at least you can make some money. Virtual models are not only used to promote your products on social media or web platform, but are also employed to help companies collect funds in a number of ways. Take for example this virtual model called Luna. She was one of the winners of the European Virtual Award, has been interviewed by Facebook, and can be found wearing a number of high-end brands. Last but not least, our British virtual model is the virtual girl of our time. She has done over 200,000 live video calls since her first live action in February 2019. She has been the focus of the media for over a year now, thanks to her exceptional performance in our popular live call \"The Curse of The Hot Chick.\" She now releases several new porn videos regularly! A virtual model who has been all over the world is the Dutch vocalist Nadia. She is one of a handful of virtual singers to have appeared on the cover of renowned magazines including the top-selling ELLE (magazine). The first virtual idol from Indonesia, Halika is a model with a unique rise to fame. She was scouted by a big agency and later modelled for other industry players. Although she was actually pursuing a model career, she eventually decided to enter the world of cinema and TV. She has been on countless TV appearances as an actress or show host. Do you own a pet? If you do, then perhaps it would be great to have a girl who looks a bit like the furry friend you love. A virtual model who looks just like a spotted tabby cat is Rhonda. She first made an appearance on Instagram in March 2019. She is the product of the objective programming of artificial intelligence and can change into various cat forms. The jolly personality has over 17,000 followers and the makers of the cat simulation game have revealed that her appearance inspired the creation of the game itself. 5ec8ef588b
