I've been playing around with the wyUpdate Full Crack the last couple of days and its come a very long way. The documentation is now better than I can produce! The documents for both client and server update are easily browsable and understandable. I tried the Pe-to-Pe upgrade today on several computers and its worked great. Its about the only one I tried thus far. I tried it with WinXP and Win7 with no problems. The first 2 computers I tried were Win7 and WinXP with no problems. Now I've tried it with Win7 and WinXP and they have no problems. I was thinking about the update issue and I think they may have moved in the right direction. I'm going to suggest a different way to handle the auto update. I see where you are coming from about not wanting the user to have to update every time they run a program, but most of the companies I deal with have hundreds of clients and it would be a major task to manually handle all of the updates. I think they may have missed a key point when the first version of the wyUpdate Serial Key Client was released. What I think they should have done was instead of making the wyUpdate Activation Code Client that can be downloaded and installed on the users computer, it should have been made as a program that can be downloaded and ran from a folder. This would have been the best approach. I should have taken that approach myself as the end user. For example, I downloaded Autocad 2010 last night and then today I ran it from the Autocad folder. The only thing that had to be done by the user was make sure the Autocad 2010 folder was set as the startup folder. The wyUpdate For Windows 10 Crack Client does this but in a much more elegant way. All you need to do is install the wyUpdate Serial Key Client and then the wyUpdate Activation Code Client will take care of the rest. I think

Q: MySQL multiline insert I have a problem with inserting multiple lines into a MySQL table. What I try to do is creating a blank table with one row. Then I put a record with the same values of a row of the blank table. My current query is like this: insert into acf_custom_values (id, date, name, value) values ('', NOW(), 'date', '%d-%m-%Y'); insert into acf_custom_values (id, date, name, value) values ('', NOW(), 'date', '%d-%m-%Y'); I can get this working fine on a single line query, but if I add more lines I get an error saying: #1064 - You have an error in your SQL syntax; check the manual that corresponds to your MySQL server version for the right syntax to use near '' at line 1 I tried using \r instead of but that doesn't work either. Can someone help me figure out how to insert multiple lines of data into a MySQL table? A: You have to write all your insert statements on one line. That's what you already did. The error you got is because MySQL finds a ; at the end of the second insert statement. This ends the batch. So, your query should be: insert into acf_custom_values (id, date, name, value) values ('', NOW(), 'date', '%d-%m-%Y '); insert into acf_custom_values (id, date, name, value) values ('', NOW(), 'date', '%d-%m-%Y '); Also, it is advisable to use NOW() instead of 'now'. You cannot get the current time with 'now' (it is a reserved word) and some day you will run into trouble. The only case when you can use the function is if you are using it in a dynamic query (WHERE... NOW())
