In my project I use jsp. First, I didn't like the size of my image, so I resize it From the next moments I have the problem. I use the following code: `File file = new File("d:\image.jpg"); BufferedImage img = ImageIO.read(file); BufferedImage newImage = img.getScaledInstance(bgWidth, bgHeight, Image.SCALE_SMOOTH); ImageIO.write(newImage, "jpg", file);` When I upload the image with this code it is larger then before. Do you know how to change it? A: The `ImageIO.write(Image src)` function is designed to convert from one file format to another, and in doing so adds "metadata" which is needed to maintain the original file in memory. If you use the `read(File file)` method instead, no such metadata is written and the image is "flat". There's a third way to do this that involves a third way to do the conversion: `BufferedImage img = ImageIO.read(file); Image newImg = ImageIO.read(new File("d:\`
