The layers create a grid of each move and save onto the canvas. Each move can be redrawn in a new layer, or moved to another Layer and saved as a new layer. This saves massive amounts of time and allows multiple multiple layers to be used at once. However, often times the knowledge as to the subject matter of a photo cannot be easily and instantly noted via layers. Intelligent find bar, or search bar, can be used to search any part and file with matching text. This includes images found online such as image search results, or even through a project file. It also allows users to search through existing layers and save them. With this feature, it will change the path to the different layers on the canvas and allow users to drag and drop as well as cut and paste objects. There are some other important search functions, such as replacing color, increasing size, and changing contrast etc. These searches are done in the name of simultaneous searches, as opposed to sequential searches of the past. Smart select allows users to select multiple objects at once with a simple click. With this feature, it works with layers as well as can be performed with active layers and all objects. It's not just for graphic designers, as it can be used with photography and other video editing. Here, users are able to hold down the Alt key on their computer and use the mouse to select and delete objects. When the Alt is released, the objects are erased.
